

GIVE YOUR INTERPRETIVE PROGRAMS LIFE!

Available
Spring Term
2015

FES 493/593 –
*Environmental Interpretation

Design Messages for the Interpretive Setting

In Environmental Interpretation (FES 493/593), you discover how to communicate with visitors to interpretive settings via presentations, guided tours, displays, social media, and new media platforms. You learn how to craft messages specially tailored to engage not only visitors to parks, museums, aquariums, and historic sites, but also users of digital media.

Offered through OSU Extended Campus, Environmental Interpretation reveals the effectiveness of interpretation as a communication strategy. We introduce communication techniques applicable to a variety of disciplines – including natural, historical, and cultural resource management.

Augment Your Transcript and Resume

Environmental Interpretation students participate in real-world interpretive projects available through the U.S. Forest Service and Oregon State Parks, and connect to employment opportunities available with these and other agencies. Students are also made aware of training and certification opportunities available through the National Association for Interpretation (NAI).

So if you've ever envisioned yourself working as a park ranger, nature center director, exhibit designer, website designer, or if you simply want to improve your communication skills, then this is the course for you.

Join us Spring Term 2015 for FES 493/593-Environmental Interpretation

for registration information, visit ecampus.oregonstate.edu, or call 1-800-667-1465