

Get a professional degree in International Forestry

Seeking to take your career in international forestry to the next level? Check out the Master of International Forestry (MIF) program with the Faculty of Forestry at the University of British Columbia in Canada.

Why MIF?

- Complete a professional master's degree in 10 months
- Benefit from a curriculum targeted at major international employers
- Gain skills identified in over 200 forestry and environmental job postings
- Apply your knowledge and skills to international forest issues
- Connect with our Faculty's other outstanding graduate students from 40 countries

The MIF is a full-time, course-based master's degree that provides a foundation in forest and natural resources management, conservation and policy. Designed for early/mid-career professionals, the MIF is for individuals who want to engage productively – and to become leaders – in an international forestry context with international agencies and secretariats, finance institutions, transnational forest products enterprises, government ministries, consulting firms, NGOs, and advocacy groups.

Program components include:

- Natural resources economics
- International forest governance and policy
- International forestry institutions, diplomacy and negotiations
- Forest business enterprise
- Natural resources planning
- Social, community and indigenous forestry

Applications for the September 2016 start date open in October 2015. Visit our website for information on how to apply: www.forestry.ubc.ca/students/graduate/programs/master-of-international-forestry/. Admission is competitive, so apply early.

For further information, please visit:

www.forestry.ubc.ca

or contact: Dr. Joleen Timko, Program Coordinator

+1.604.822.6092 or joleen.timko@ubc.ca